Bearded Iris Culture: German Iris needs a location with at least 6 hours of direct sun for best bloom. They are tolerant of most soil types if it is well drained and not too compacted. When planting, loosen the soil 8-12" deep and add generous amounts of bone meal or any form of phosphorous. Make sure 25-50% of the rhizome is above the soil level. In early spring, one application of slow release fertilizer is all that is needed to keep them going all season. German irises tolerate drought, although it is recommended they get supplemental water when needed to keep the foliage looking it's best. Varieties labeled re-bloomer may send out sparse fall flowers if they are well cared for. When they get crowded every 3-5 years they should be lifted in August and thinned out for best blooming performance. Please note the bloom seasons are noted after the heights, this is to aid in producing an iris plot with extended seasonal interest.

Varieties, description and culture.....

Peacock Butterfly Miss Apple $8.99 / Siberian / 30" tall / Fragrant blooms of cranberry, mauve, violet, gold, and red.

Pink Parfait $8.99 / Siberian / 28" tall / 6- 7" double blooms of lavender-pink resemble a rose more than an Iris.
The edges of each petal are lighter than the center.

Variegata $8.99 / Japanese / 28" tall / Bright purple flowers with yellow beards. Nice white striped leaves add interest post-bloom.

Culture: Japanese, Louisiana, and Siberian Irises all are at their best in moist, rich acidic soil abundant in humus. These tend to be much less maintenance than German iris although they do love their water. Louisiana irises can grow in water year round, The Japanese Irises tolerate shallow water in summer only while Siberian Iris can take considerable dryness upon establishment, although blooming may suffer. The Siberian Irises are also valued for their nice vertical foliage when not in bloom.
